MANY HONOR JUDGE MINOR

Great Company of Friends Attend His Funeral.

WRAPPED IN STARS & BARS

The Old Flag He Fought for and Gave His Right Arm for Encircled His Casket-Tablet to His Memory.

The honor and esteem with which Judge E. C. Minor was held by the people of Richmond was fully attested yesterday afternoon, when a great company of sorrowing people went to the Holy Trinity Church to pay his memory, the last tribute of respect.

The service was held at 5 p'clock. It The service was held at 5 o'clock. It was conducted by Rev. J. J. Gravatt, rector of the church, and consisted almply of the beautiful service always used by that denomination. The casket was borne to the altar by old friends and comrades of the deceased, It was appropriately wrapped in a Confederate Ilias, and over the bosom of the sleeper rested an everseen cross, the symbol of the order of Delta Psl. It is an interesting fact that both flag and cross were burled with him. Behind the casket came the family, detail from Lee Camp, detail from Pickett Camp, members of St. Anthony Alumni Association of Delta Psl and the ladles of the Hollywood Memorial Association.

Belvidere Hall to-night at 8 o'clock, and as officers for the ensuing year are to be chosen. President Miner and the other officers are anxious that there shall be a full attendance of members.

The present officers are: President, E. W. Miner: Secretary, John C. Page: Trensurer, B. A. Jacob, and indications are that they will all be re-elected.

Heretofore, during the heated term, there has been a sparse attendance upon the meetings, but it is likely-that the members will turn out to-night to take part in the election of officers.

It is probable that a resolution will be adopted in the meeting urging all Democrats to register when the books are opened next week.

GREAT INTEREST IN AMHERST AND NELSON

From sun-up to sun-down in Nelson and Amherst countles to-day political contests will rage with great flerceness to determine who shall represent these constituencies in the lower branch of the constituencies in the lower branch of the Legislature of 1904-5.

In Nelson five candidates are in the field, and they are former Delegate A. B. Fitzpatrick, Dr. John C. Everett, Colonel P. B. Young and Messrs. W. H. Parrish and Geoge W. Whitehead. Well posted leaders up there say the fight is between Fitzpatrick and Everett, and that the result is in great doubt.

Farmer Evans Has No Hope of a Snowstorm in This Vicinity Soom

Overcoats will not be in demand, from present indications, for several days, at least. Farmer Evans, in his office, with an electric fan near his head, and several fans near at hand, said as much yesterday. He would not advise people to build coal fires at present, but would suggest a continuation of the ice supply. There are some thunder storms in right, and the storm sign is out all along the southern coast. This news is received with joy by the soft drinks men, and those who cannot get possession of their overcoats, and the people who have not had much of a touch of park pleasures are still in line.

the session will extend a month longer in that county than heretofore. This is attributed to the consolidation of small schools and the introduction of graded schools. The outlook is bright for the most successful year's work ever known in the county.

UNFOUNDED COMPLAINT.

The Department of Public Instruction has received a letter from the superintendent of schools in Charlotte in reference to the complaint of certain pations of the colored schools at Keysville, that the public school there had been subordinated to the mission school at that place. This complaint appears to be without foundation. As a matter of fact the public school and get the advantage of the excelent building reared for the mission school and of the industrial training which was to have been afforded by the mission school. Besides this. Mr. Glass is the real architect of the Virginia Summer School of Method, which has grown in fifteen years from a couple of hundred pupils to a school with one thousand or more attendants. He is the conductor of the summer school, and deserves much of the credit for the fine work done by it in equipping teachers for better work. The action of the Lynchburg board in increasing the salary of Mr. Glass is construed by some to mean that the Lynchburg board does not desire to lose his services, and in order to hold him there have offered him this substantial evidence of appreciation of his work. Mr. Glass has been suggested as a possible and even probable candidate for the position of State superintendent, but this increase

The property is valued at $75,000 or more, and from a young lady who had the bravery to earn her own living. Miss Bradfield succeeds to a fortune of which any Southern girl might be justly proud. The young lady naturally is exceedingly modest as yet in claiming her weath. She does not know, at least, not in her own raind, that she has it, it is right hard for one to realize that wealth has suddenly come.

one to realize that wealth has suddenly come.

One of the prettlest features of this newfound fortune is that it came as a reward for kindness, when the young lady had no idea of doing more than following the impulses of her own warm and sunny nature. She said yesterday that her sorrow for the death of her aunt took away any elation at her good fortune. She never saw her aunt on but one occasion. This was while the latter was living on Franklin Street a year or so ago. They became good friends, and when they separated the nicee had become a favorite through censideration and little acts of unsellishness, of which the young lady was herself unconscious: at least, she followed the promptings of her nature. Since then they have corresponded.

Miss Bradfield is a stenographer in the office of Messrs, R. B. Chaffin and Company. Her father was the late H. L. Bradfield, a prominent citizen of Waco. The aunt was the daughter of a wealthy citizen of Dallas. The young lady has been a resident of Richmond two years, and has constantly made friends. # MOVING COST A LIFE, POSSIBLY

Mrs. Emma Dodge Clay Succumbs to Work of Packing. Buried in Blandford.

The worry and work of packing up to move possibly cost Mrs. Emma Dodge Clay her life. Mrs. Clay was proparing to move to Washintgon, giving up her residence, No. 2 West Marshall Street, this city. After all her possessions in the way of household goods had been gotten together Wednesday morning, she was aften sick and lingsred until Thursday morning, when at 5:15 o'clock she passed away. The new tenant was preparing to move in, and she was ready to go out, but as soon as she became ill a bed was hastily set up and a room furnished for her use. Dr. Landon B. Edwards was summoned and a trained nurse secured. Everything possible was done for the patient, but to no avail.

Decensed leaves a son, Mr. Henry Gordon Clay, of Pittsburg, Mass., and adughter, Miss Garnett Louise Clay, of this city. One brother, Mr. Edwin Cradock, who lives near Petersburg, also survives. The worry and work of packing up to dock, who lives near Fetersong, assurvives.

The funeral took place yesterday afterneon at 3 o'clook. Dr. Jere Witherspoon conducted the service, and the interment was made in Blandford Cometery, Petersburg.

NHE TEXTILE INDUSTRIES

The Conditions in New England Have Greatly Improved.

Greatly Improved.

(By Associated Press.)

BOSTON, MASS., September II.—Despite the continued high selling price of raw cetton in the market, and the duliness in manufactured cotton reported by the mercantile agencies, the industrial outlook in the textile centers of New England seems to have distinctly improved since a week ago. Beginning Monday, Fall River will make a net gain of 1,000,000 spindles in operation, while na cerresponding increase in hands employed, money put into the pockets of workings men and raw material turned into finished products.

More than that, it appears that the season of curtailment is pearing an end in Fall River, and that when the mills that are to be idle next week start up again it will be to run on a normal basis. New Bedford mills are again in receipt of suf flectror mills are significant orders to keep the plants in operation for some time.

These reports are especially encouraging, as it is from this section that come also the most pessimistic reports.

Lowell has been running full since the strike, and no sign of curtailment is vis-ible. The Nassau mill started this week, with raw cotton enough to carry them over till December 1st, when the agents anticipate lower prices. There is no change in the satisfactory stuation at Manchester, where the mills have had little trouble. The Hamilton mills, at little trouble. The Hamilton mins, a. Amesbury, have curtailed production to about one-half the normal output, but on the other hand, two Lewiston mills which have been closed, have completed all arrangements to open again the first of next month, having been able to buy cot-

British Home Squadron to Visit American Waters,

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, September II.—The Press Association to-day announced that the British home squadron will be sent to the United States on a courtesy visit in return for the American action in sending a squadron to Portsmouth.

The home squadron, which is commanded by Vice-Admiral Sir Arthur K. Wilson, has just returned from a participation in the naval manoeuvres and will sail September 18th, for a six weeks' cruise around Scotland. Shortly afterwards, according to the announcement, the squadron will sail for America.

The British admiralty to-night authorized a contradiction of the statement that the British squadron will visit the United States.

States. Oyeters Coming In.

The oysters received in this city thus early in the season are said to be of very good quality, and to promise an even better quality as the season advances. The supply promises to be squal to last season. Few are coming in from Virginia waters yet, the open season not yet having begun. It will begin, however, next Tuesday. Very fair quality of oysters can be had at the restaurants now, however.
